

Modernism Runs Riot in Demuth's Show on 5th Ave.

An exhibition of water colors by Charles Demuth is in the present show at the Parke-Bernet Gallery, No. 2 West Fifty-first Street. It will be continued until Nov. 8.

Mr. Demuth was born in Lancaster, Pa., and studied at Philadelphia. He has been bitten by modernism and has the undeniably critics. Last summer he painted flowers and dunes at Provincetown, Cape Cod, and the work that he did there is now on exhibition at the Duran gallery.

Mr. Demuth made no effort to paint flowers and the dunes as they really are. That is entirely too commonplace for him. The camera man could do that far better. He has striven rather after "Color Sensation!" His has; it must be said, succeeded in obtaining individual color notes of striking quality. When, however, he has approached synthesis, he has found his own combinations as difficult to manage as a team of wild horses.

The result is, almost every case, has been color catastrophe, tensely. His colors scream wildly. You can almost hear them at it. They vibrate like interference and the chromatic elements clash and fight. His classic section is purely artificial, and his efforts to avoid something approaching the others' work he has produced flowers that are in no botany and dunes that exist only as chimeras. You would not be able to find Mr. Demuth's dunes at Provincetown, Cape Cod, because they are not there, although he painted them there, with infinite skill.

They are merely creatures of his imagination, that appeal to certain people, but they are nevertheless incoherencies of the first water.

They are painted as a geological chart is charted, and show the lines as of sedimentary rocks, the continents and in buckles. They rise with the pictured rocks of Michigan and out of the heterogeneity rise the previously mentioned color sensations, as the fabled Phoenix rose from his ashes in the classic legend.

The drawings (in color) are of such stuff as dreams are made of—soft, mottled, muddled, muddled here, and there a note of sanity may be detected, but in the entirety there is little but the grotesque, the monstrous and the incoherent.

The pictures reflect the din of the boiler factory rather than the musical sonority of a trained orchestra.

Occasionally a color note shines forth, but if flickers as a firefly and luminosity, at the best, is only ephemeral.

With the exceptions noted the show is a good one.

Praise Col. H. B. Woodward.

In recognition of the services of the late Col. Robert B. Woodward, a trustee of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences from 1887 to 1916, a memorial meeting was held yesterday afternoon in the Academy of Music, Brooklyn. A. Augustus Hoy, President of the Institute's board of trustees, presided. The speakers were Alfred T. White, the Rev. John H. Lathrop, Charles D. Alcock, William H. Fox and Dr. C. Stuart Glaser.

"Any End in the House" Sale

Three-Piece Suit or Overcoat to order

$10

$10

Here, there and everywhere in my store the tag, "Any End in the House $10 Sale," can be found. I have made a big shift in my New York store help, and it is to the benefit of every reader of this paper to call and see what I offer for sale, whether you purchase or not. Woolens, linings, trimmings and everything are going to the sky for prices.

The man thinking of getting a suit or overcoat three or four weeks from to-day would do well to step in to-day and order. If you don't order here, it gives you comparative value of what all worsted suits and all wool overcoats should bring for price. I can assure you of the services of the highest priced cutter in the clothing business.

To the readers of my ads the past few months, you will notice that I have raised the price on ready-made overcoats from $6.50 to $7.50, and if the prices of labor, trimmings and linings go up, I will have to raise that next week, but for the coming week
